The Business Way!
The business way to advertise is to year, take pains with your advertisements in making them attractive, and change them at least as often as once a month.

You may think there are seasons when you don't need to advertise.

We have never seen that time.

Use the dull seasons for looking over your stock and running off the surplus by becoming out of style or unfashionable, and giving bargains.

If you have space by the year, it costs you no more, and you can make it profitable by converting unsalable goods into money, and reinvesting the money in those things which are salable.

Where is That Banner Now?
Gambler (Ind.) Review—During the last campaign the Democrats of this city displayed a banner in their processions bearing this inscription:

VOTE FOR GROVER CLEVELAND AND GET $1.25 A WEEK FOR YOUR WARE.

A liberal reward will be paid for that banner at this office, and no questions asked.

The Jewitt Store Works of Buffalo, N. Y., which employs over 300 hands, has been shut down since July 4th with no immediate prospect of starting up.

Never before within 20 years has the shaft of abuse against the manufacturers by certain newspapers last fall had its effect in turning the workmen against their employers and some of them are beginning to realize it.

GROVER CLEVELAND said in his famous speech at Madison Square Garden in July, 1892, "This is the workingman's constant lot could hardly ever be the necessities of life." How much better off are the thousands now who have no employment?

ON SILVER.

A Speech by the "Tall Sycamore of the West."

Mr. Voorhees Addresses the House for Nearly Two Hours.

He Was Listened To With Attention—The Senator Briefly Sketched the Sherman Law, and Gave His Idea of the National Banking System.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23.—Senator Voorhees, of Indiana, addressed the house for nearly two hours, Tuesday, on the silver question. His speech was untiringly listened to from the first to the last period. Among other things the senator said:

While the calm, unbiased opinion of a great majority of the American people, irrespective of parties, has justified the action of the president in convening the extra session, the cause for the action was widely and dangerously misunderstood, and by certain classes grossly misrepresented. Therefore, he deemed fitting a few words in explanation, and in no spirit of strife or controversy.

For five months had he been the voice of the prophet of financial evil from the great money centers had emanated credit contracts, the currency and resulting in panic. No one believed there was a confidence felt by the government creditors of the stability of the currency, notwithstanding the empty treasury. The American credit was better today than that of any other country on the globe and even cowardly capital seized upon our bonds with well-grounded confidence.

Legislation had checked foreign trade, and we had not today a commercial friend in the world. For every law that we enacted pertaining to foreign productions a place in our markets and declining commercial relations we would be certain of an injurious blow in return from every trading people in the world. He had faith that the great evil which crippled trade commerce would be removed with other evils.

But there was another and more conservative powerful test of our government credit, which asserted its claim not only to the trust and admiration of the American people, but also to the business confidence and respect of every civilized nation on earth. Money was simply a medium for the exchange of values; money was a creature and sought its creation Gold and its alleged intrinsic value was worth as a circulating medium unless the coin bore the stamp of the government.

The same official stamp on silver, or on paper, at once enabled it to serve the same purpose in purchasing power, no matter how debased or valueless the material may have become as commodities by sinister or adverse legislation. Mr. Voorhees briefly sketched the Sherman law which resulted from a local legislation, said in the evil hour the worst and darkest that ever befell the cause of bimetalism, or the honor and existence of silver coin, this pernicious compromise was accepted and foisted on the country.

It emanated from the enemies of silver money and its purpose was to degrade, dishonor and disgrace this one of the precious metals until it could no longer hold its own with gold as a part of the specie basis of this country and of the world.

Beginning with the first speech he had made in the senate down to the present hour he could recall no vote or words on the subject of coinage and circulation of silver which he would change or blot from the record if he could. And now, in this, the darkest days for silver, he avowed his unshaken faith that it would remain forever one of the world's greatest factors of finance, commerce, traffic and daily life in business transactions.

Mr. Voorhees said that such questions as ratios were matters of detail, but the American people had declared that silver should not be debased and contraction should not be based on the basis of monometallism. Congress would establish a fair ratio and money of the two metals would be diminished. No effort would be spared to effect an international agreement, but under the terms of the treaty by destroying half of the constitutional money of the two metals he believed to the fact that the banks had not interest, turned their keys on all business properties, and that they had attempted to seize the government itself by the throat and to play the bully and mastiff toward those least in authority.

Mr. Voorhees took his stand against the operation of the Sherman law, and he proposed national debt for purposes of national banking, and called upon the millions who constitute the great army of laborers to support this issue from this time on—an issue that will not die until it has secured the triumph of bimetalism.

Mr. Voorhees then proceeded to outline his idea of what was to follow the national banking system.

Investigation of the subject showed that no one had ever lost a dollar by the depreciation of the notes of a regularly chartered state bank or its failure to redeem its currency in gold and silver when called upon to do so.

Mr. Voorhees concluded by proposing several things which he would like to see put on a party and made interchangeable with every other state secured by the Sherman law.

He proposed the settlement of the vexed question of silver money at once and forever by authorizing silver to perform its portion of the money function, and he proposed that the specie basis be secured by the constitution for every chartered bank, and that the issue of money be placed in the hands of the states to make legal tender money.

He proposed the full and complete overthrow of the dangerous centralization of the money power now existing in the few money centers, and in the hands of a few individuals, giving the people of each state the right to make their own money, and to issue a reliable, noncontracting home circulation.

To these free propositions Mr. Voorhees added but one more—a carefully adjusted and graded income tax—a most equitable and upright measure in providing government revenue.

JOHNSON'S BILL.

By Unanimous Consent He Introduced His Bill.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23.—By unanimous consent of the house Tuesday Representative Johnson, of Ohio, introduced his bond currency exchange bill, which was referred to the committee on banking and currency, with leave to report any time after the present order on the silver question has expired. The bill provides:

That any holder of bonds of the United States may after the passage of this act deposit such bonds as treasury notes of the United States or the officers of any assistant treasurer of the United States and receive therefor their face value in treasury notes of the United States as described in the act of July 14, 1890. Such bonds may be held as an special order of the credit of the party depositing them, and during the time they are so held shall draw no interest, and shall be returned on the order of the party depositing them on the payment of their face value in United States currency.

The other sections authorize the secretary of the treasury to make such regulations as are necessary to carry the foregoing into effect and repeal all laws inconsistent with the provisions of the first section.

It is estimated that this bill would have the effect at once of increasing the currency to a large amount.

COL. BRECKINRIDGE.
Has He Been Forced to Remain Silent in the House?

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23.—Probably Col. Breckinridge's conduct in retiring from public gaze, is caused by the report, generally accepted as true, that the members of the house were making a vigorous protest against his appearance on the floor as a speaker at the present time.

He has been announced twice as one of the speakers on the silver question. Each time when it was supposed that he was going to appear, he was crowded with people, moved by a curiosity to hear the chief actor in one of the greatest scandals of the day.

This report says that the members threaten to leave the house in a body the moment he begins speaking.

Representative Fellows, of New York, wants to know whether Col. Breckinridge favors paying Miss Poland in gold or silver.

Pfeiffer's Scheme.
WASHINGTON, Aug. 23.—Mr. Pfeiffer has submitted to the senate a plan, the full details of which are somewhat remarkable. He proposes the immediate issue and distribution of treasury notes to the amount of $250,000,000, of the denomination of $1, $2, $5, $10 and $20 each. These notes are made payable to the order of the money, and are to be received by the government for taxes and all public debts, and to be legal tender for all debts. As fast as prepared they are to be placed in the treasury as so much available cash, and paid out the same as other public moneys, and released when returned to the treasury in the course of business.

House Proceedings.
WASHINGTON, Aug. 23.—The house Tuesday morning passed the senate bill for the hearing of "Holy International exposition. Mr. Johnson (democrat, of Ohio) introduced his international exposition bill, which was referred to the banking and currency committee, with leave to report any time after the silver debate. The silver debate is expected to continue until the end of the session.

Breckinridge Did Not Speak.
WASHINGTON, Aug. 23.—Representative W. C. P. Breckinridge, of Kentucky, who was assigned by Speaker Crisp to begin proceedings in the house with the introduction of the silver question, did not speak Tuesday. He left the city Saturday for Staunton, Va., where his wife and daughters are spending the summer, and returned Monday morning the speaker received a letter informing him that Mr. Breckinridge would not be in the city Tuesday.

Efforts to Increase the Circulation.
WASHINGTON, Aug. 23.—Treasurer Morgan stated that the national banks are continuing their efforts to increase the circulation of their currency, and are meeting the demand for currency from all parts of the country. A daily average of $500,000 bonds have been deposited with him during the past week to secure circulation, until Tuesday the total increase of deposits ran over $200,000,000, being an increase of $22,000,000 since January 1st, last.

A LONG NAP.

Remarkable Case in the Indiana Insane Hospital.

Bridget Pendergast Has Been Asleep for Nearly Three Years.

The Most Heroic Efforts to Wake Her Failed—She is Now Believed to Be Dying—The Case Has Attracted Much Interest Among Physicians.

INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 23.—Miss Bridget Pendergast, an inmate of the Central Insane Hospital, located in this city, who has been asleep for nearly three years, and whose case has attracted wide-spread interest among the medical profession, is reported to be dying. The most heroic efforts failed to wake her. Three years ago the patient showed evidence of insanity. Except upon rare occasions she would not talk and refused to take food. When she was induced to take food, she was induced to be placed in her bed. On the 10th of July, 1893, she was removed to St. Vincent's hospital, where she remained dull, listless and melancholy, refusing to take food except when it was forced upon her. Miss Pendergast was 39 years of age when admitted to St. Vincent's hospital.

Little was known of her history, she having been born in Ireland, where most of her relatives resided, and the only cause of her derangement that could be ascertained was that she had been disappointed in love.

On the 7th of September, 1893, she was admitted to the hospital for the insane, and has been an inmate of that institution ever since. For a time after being admitted she appeared to brighten up, and whenever the subject was mentioned she expressed a desire to go home. For a short time she took food, and then required to be fed. Finally, in February, 1891, she flatly refused to swallow anything, and a few days later she lapsed into a profound stupor or sleep, in which condition, with the exception of evidences of returning consciousness on one or two occasions, she remained up to last Thursday.

MILWAUKEE MEN.

Two Hundred Unemployed March to the City Hall and Demand Work.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Aug. 23.—A mob of over 250 unemployed laborers marched through the streets to the courthouse and called for the mayor Tuesday morning. When Mayor Koch made his appearance he was greeted with cries of "Bread!" and "Work!"

Several of the workmen made speeches and demanded that the city officials go to Washington and demand the law which made hard times repeated. They said they must have work or their families would starve. Mayor Koch advised them to return to their homes and procure work where ever they could. He said the city would soon have money enough to prosecute public improvement and give many men work. The mob then retired. On the way to the courthouse the crowd looted a candy stand and appropriated some of the fruit merchant's stock.

Monday night a party of workmen, who had just been discharged, stopped at a baker's wagon on North Washington and compelled him to give up his stock of bread. The same party went into a saloon and ordered beer, which they drank and refused to pay for.

Some of the agitators promise a larger and more sensational gathering Wednesday.

MURDER AND SUICIDE.

A Colored Man Kills His White Mistress and Then Commits Suicide.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Aug. 23.—Tuesday evening Edward Freeman, a colored man, met Emma Lutton, a white woman, near the Wylie avenue power house, and without a word of warning, pulled a pistol and fired. The woman fell to the pavement struck by a bullet in the temple.

Freeman walked down the avenue about 25 feet still holding the smoking revolver in his hands, and drove off the place the weapon to his head, back of the right ear, fired and fell to the pavement dead. A patrol wagon was at once called and the woman taken to the homeopathic hospital, where she died at 3:50. The body of the man was taken to the morgue.

Miss Lutton, who had been intimate with Freeman for the past four years, lately had been receiving the attentions of some one else. The made Freeman insanely jealous, which finally culminated in the above rash act.

DRIVEN FROM WORK.

Unemployed Men at Denver Object to "Starvation Wage."

DENVER, Aug. 23.—A mob of unemployed laborers Tuesday morning visited the vicinity where the North Side sewer is now being built and drove off of the trench seventy-five men who were working eight hours at $1.30 a day.

The men in the ditch were willing to work, but the mob, with cries of "No starvation wages in free America," forced them to quit. Only three policemen were on the scene and they could do nothing. Contractor Hindry suspended all work for the day and has demanded protection for his men from the authorities. Later the mob drove off the laborers at work on the Capitol Hill sewer.
